The second means, by which Moses acted unceasingly upon the poetry of the nation, was by the description of his own deeds ; by his own poetry and songs. His last poetical effusion, as before remarked, was the pattern- of the prophets. The Israelites were required to learn it, and make it familiar to their minds ; and severe as it was upon them, they held it in high esteem. His song at the Red Sea was the model of their Psalms of praise, of triumph, and of deliverance, as the lofty Psalm ascribed to him, which is the 90th in the collection, was the beautiful model of didactic poems. In general, the poetry of Moses, like his life and character, is- full of meaning, but severe, earnest, and breathing an air of solitude. It glows with brightness, as his countenance did, but a...
