

Flowing Upstream: Empowering Women through Water Management Initiatives in India

By Sara Ahmad (ed.)

Foundation Books in association with Centre for Environment Education, New Delhi, India. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: New. First Edition. In a world fraught with visions of an impending 'water crisis' it is not surprising that the main barrier to achieving the Millennium Goals of Development of water, sanitation and hygiene, for all, is not seen as a lack of willingness to learn from the past, to acknowledge failure and success and respect the diversity of approaches and social actors. this book brings together five in-depth case studies of civil society interventions from different parts of India which have struggled to resolve issues of women's participation, equity and sustainability in community based water management systems. From the water scarce areas of coastal Gujarat where UTTHAN has been promoting decentralized and gender equitable water alternatives to the SEWA campaign on women, water and work, and AKRSP(I)s attempts to involve women farmers in participatory irrigation management interventions in adivasi dominated South Gujarat, from community lift-irrigation schemes in Jharkhand managed by womens group promoted by PRADAN, to SOPPECOMs efforts in facilitating rights to water and land for women and the landless in Maharashtra, the case studies illustrate that the process of...
