I think him distinguished, among the writers of our country, for depth of thought and a happy style of expression. As a firm friend to the prosperity of our University it is gratifying to me to see a man of his calibre at the head of it. I have attentively and repeatedly read his Limitations of Human Responsibility with much pleasure, and, I hope some profit. I think it a valuable treatise, because it has thrown light upon a branch of ethics, a knowledge of which has a direct and practical application to the daily duties of life. I assent to the soundness of the principles here laid down and the limitations of...
